20 Homes Burned In State

Parched Forests Blaze as Fires Sweep Vast Areas Throughout Missouri

By The Associated Press
Fires fed by parched forests and fields reached out to destroy 20 homes and a vacant school building last night and today in southeast Missouri areas, leaving a thick pall of smoke over the entire region.

The Poplar Bluff area, however, was only one of many Missouri and Kansas districts affected by hundreds of fires over the weekend.

In Sedalia, from Friday thru Sunday, there were 21 fire calls to bring the total for the month of October to 90 with five days still to go.

Five counties — Butler, Ripley, Carter, Wayne and Reynolds — were hard hit by the flames. Fire fighters were recruited quickly throughout the region to battle the flames in both state and national forests.

Forest Ranger Paul Kihlmeier of Poplar Bluff called the situation one "of the most serious" he has witnessed.

Some of the homes destroyed by fire were vacant. Families which occupied others were unable to escape. Thus far no injuries have been reported in the five-county area.

With the fires and dense smoke clouds highway driving became a hazard and numerous minor accidents were reported. A slight breeze cleared the air in parts of the area today, but with the breeze came the danger of increased fire damage. Any stiff breeze could whip the flames out of control, Kihlmeier said.

George O. White, Missouri state forester, said 68 timber fires swept some 2,500 acres in southern Missouri over the weekend.

Lee Pine, district forester, said there were 22 forest and brush fires in the Meramec, Mo., district. They raged across more than 1,000 acres of timber and grazing land. More than 300 men—including 200 volunteers — fought the fires throughout yesterday and into last night. The Meramec district takes in St. Louis, Jefferson, Franklin, Washington and Crawford counties.

Pine blamed squirrel hunters for many of the fires.

The vast majority of fires resulted from the burning of trash and leaves. There was a brisk wind and with everything tinder-dry, scores of those bonfires got out of control.

Most of the fires in Kansas—and they were reported from all over the state—were small. One near St. Marys and another near Chanute burned areas of about one square mile.

About 200 acres of brush and timber on the west side of Kansas City, Kan., were burned. The fire continued to rage late last night. Firemen concentrated on saving 60 homes in the neighborhood.

An eight-room house near Pleasant Hill, Mo., was destroyed.

In Greater Kansas City, firemen answered more than 100 alarms yesterday. Three garages and an automobile were damaged. Four sheds were destroyed in Kansas City, Kan.

Forty alarms were reported in St. Louis. There were dozens of others in St. Louis county. In Creve Coeur, fire swept 200 acres of grass, brush and trees. While firemen and volunteers fought it, another fire broke out a short distance away. It was within 1,000 feet of Chaminade College before it was halted.

About 500 volunteers fought a fire which raged most of the day on the 160 acre farm of Earl Bradley, near McBaine, Mo.

Firemen at Columbia, Mo., answered more than a dozen alarms. St. Joseph, Mo., reported its 55th fire in three days. Most of them were grass and brush fires.

A weed fire spread to a scrap rubber dump in East St. Louis, Ill. A dozen piles of old tires and inner tubes were consumed. Firemen fought the blaze four hours.

State Political Race Stirs Hot on Weekend

Senator Candidates for State, U. S. Seats, Mix Spice Into Vote Getting Menus, Feed Missourians Warm Dish

By The Associated Press
The political pot bubbled and boiled in Missouri over the weekend as candidates began putting in the final ingredients — mostly spice — into their election menus.

For the salad there were speeches by three out of state senators, two Democrats and one Republican.

In the main course, the state's senatorial aspirants — Republican Sen. James Kem and Democrat Stuart Symington — turned up the heat under their simmering dishes.

And for a desert, there was the announcement that President Truman will climax the Democratic drive with a speech at St. Louis on Saturday, and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) will do the same for the GOP the night before.

Sen. Kem struck back at Symington's criticism of his voting record on farm problems, by labeling the Democrat as a "Wall Street farmer and Broadway playboy."

He said of Symington "the only thing he ever milked is a corporation." Kem said he wants full parity for farmers, not merely 90 per cent.

Symington said that in travelling through Missouri he has been challenged by the vast unused productive potential in many sections of the state. He said that if elected he would use a business man's approach to help hard-hit areas.

"I would call a meeting of representatives of chambers of commerce or other business organizations of every city in Missouri. At this meeting we would discuss in detail the type and character of business these representatives feel would help their communities," he said.

Howard Elliott, Republican, who is running for governor against former Gov. Phil Donnelly, criticized the Democratic administration of both Donnelly and his successor, Gov. Forrest Smith.

He told a St. Louis audience: "And Missourians wish to examine the records of the Smith-Donnelly administrations, they need only to look at the hundreds of thousands of acres of cut-over timber land, the over-grazed prairies which support our beef cattle and dairy herds, the over-crowded mental hospitals where our unfortunate degenerate rather than rehabilitate."

In a television address in Kansas City, Donnelly said that Elliott owns "the most amazing negative voting record in the history of the Missouri legislature."

He said Elliott had voted against appropriating money for penal institutions, its judiciary and in general "for every state institution, every elective state office and every department and agency of the state government during the 1951-53 biennial period."

Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) told a Poplar Bluff gathering that Symington, in charge of buying America's tin supplies after the outbreak of Korean fighting, led the fight against an "international tin cartel."

"He saved the Treasury half a billion because he refused to give ground," Johnson said of Symington.

Another Democrat, Sen. Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina, lunched with Gov. Smith Saturday and spoke at Moberly that night.

And in St. Louis, Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) campaigned for the election of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. He told some 400 persons that President Truman is "far more arbitrary with labor than the Taft-Hartley Law," and added that Truman thinks he has "a divine right of kings that is not found in the constitution."

Three Sedalians were severely injured shortly after noon Monday when the car in which they were riding overturned at Warrensburg, Mo. Highway 50 about a half mile east of Junction of 50 and 13. The driver, Charles Edward Linsey, 26, of 316 East Fifth, was reported by State Highway Patrol Trooper S. Abney as having said he lost control of the car on a curve.

Linsey suffered cuts on his head and complained of his stomach hurting. He also had a cut in his mouth.

David Lee Klein, 18, of 1206 East 14th, is in a critical condition. Klein suffered a compound concussion, slight cuts and bruises. He was unconscious when taken to the Warrensburg Medical Center.

Billy Eugene Loughridge, 24, of 322 East Saline, suffered numerous lacerations, cuts, about his face and arms. He had a severe laceration on the right arm at the elbow, and also received multiple bruises.

According to Trooper Abney, the three were headed west on Highway 50. The car left the highway and rolled down an embankment and came to rest on its top. The car, a 1937 Dodge sedan, was demolished.

The trio was taken to the Warrensburg Medical Center for treatment.

Sedalia police were notified of the accident by radio and notified relatives of the three.

Car Backfires, Starts Fire, Burns Car, Farm Land

Fire, which started Monday morning from the exhaust of the Oldsmobile sedan of George R. Wilkerson, about 10 miles north of Sedalia, destroyed the car and swept over the pasture on the Wilkerson farm. The fire spread to a cornfield and some timber land on the Shelton Karkkari farm, which adjoins the Wilkerson place.

Mr. Wilkerson reported he had driven his car down to the pasture and got out of it for only a second when he noticed the flames starting up around the vehicle. The fire had gained so much headway he was unable to get to the automobile and it was burned.

In a matter of a few minutes more than 30 farmers had gathered and began fighting the flames. The quick action on the part of the farmers probably kept the fire from spreading over the northern portion of the county.

A number of Smith-Cotton High School students volunteered and went to the scene.

During the past several days many hundreds of acres of land in Pettis County have been scorched by fire. St. Louis of the fires started from carelessly thrown cigarettes from passing automobiles and others from trash fires.

British Tank Outfit Leaves for Korean War

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Britain's First Royal Tank Regiment sailed today to join the Commonwealth Division in Korea, where it will replace the Fifth Inniskilling Dragoon Guards.

Marines Driven Off Hill

Few Hours Earlier They Had Captured 'The Hook' In Bitter Close-quarter Fight

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP)—Punishing Red artillery fire tonight drove U. S. Marines off the crest of "The Hook" a few hours after they recaptured the western ridge line in bitter close-quarter fighting.

A marine officer at the front said the Leathernecks pulled back from the crest and forward slopes at 8:55 p. m.

There was no indication whether the Chinese Communists moved up to occupy the high ground.

The Reds earlier had attacked with 2,000 men along a three-mile front.

The Marine officers said "The Communists made only a small penetration in our line. It was contained and never got out of hand."

Near Truce Talk Site

Main target was The Hook and Marine outposts along a one-mile sector to the north. The Hook is about 10-12 miles east of Panmunjom, site of the recessed armistice talks.

The Marine officer said the Chinese attack was well-planned and well executed.

The Leathernecks of the U. S. 1st Marines rolled with the punch then started a series of counterattacks that carried them back to the top.

A staff officer told AP correspondent Milo Farneti the Leathernecks forced back the Communist battalion (500 to 750 men) which had seized one end of the Hook, killing an estimated 300 Reds.

"They dug them out of the bunkers and trenches and ran them back with grenades and rifles," the officer said.

Savage Hand-to-Hand Battle

After savage hand-to-hand fighting, the Marines secured the fish hook-shaped mile-long ridge northeast of Panmunjom at 5 p. m.

Farneti said, Allied tanks and planes pounded the Reds during the furious battle.

The Reds poured 17,000 rounds of mortar and artillery fire on one Marine regiment from dusk Sunday to dusk Monday — that was "the heaviest shelling ever received in any war by a single Marine regiment," the officer said.

Farneti said the Reds and Leathernecks "at times were actually wrestling in the trench lines."

By nightfall the Marines had recaptured all but two or three outposts guarding the Hook.

In a message to his men, General A. E. Pollack, 1st Marine Division commander, said:

"You have all the air support and ammunition you need in back of you. Keep pushing them. Keep the pressure on."

Communists Strike Sunday

The Communists Sunday knocked a hole in the U. N. lines and seized one end of "The Hook," a mile-long ridge northeast of Panmunjom.

The Red attack opened with a thunderous artillery barrage. Then about 2,000 Chinese swarmed across the three-mile front. They overran three of five Allied outposts guarding the fish hook-shaped ridge.

The Marines withdrew from two positions.

There has been no report from the third outpost since the Chinese swarmed over the top.

The Marines counterattacked at 9 p. m. and fought a trench atop "The Hook" during the night. Allied tanks and planes moved in to support a second counterattack shortly after noon Monday.

Burton Renamed To Head State Printer Group

William A. Burton, linotype operator for the Democrat, was re-elected president of the Missouri Typographical Conference at its semi-annual convention in St. Louis over the weekend. The meeting began Saturday night and the election was held Sunday.

Also elected were Paul Eaton, Springfield, first vice-president, and Marvin Kuster, Kansas City, second vice-president.

Other Sedalians attending the convention were: Mrs. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shepherd, John K. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deady. Shepherd and Anderson were in the composing room of the Democrat. Deady is a printer with the "Full Cry" magazine.

Burton begins his third year as conference president with his reelection to another two-year term.

OOOPS!—Time Magazine has revealed that an undetermined number of copies of its present issue were bound with a cover heralding a Democratic victory in the forthcoming presidential election. Covers designed to announce either a Democratic or Republican triumph had been prepared ahead of time, the proper one to appear on the issue for November 10. Somehow, some wrong covers were put into production. At left is the incorrect cover bearing portraits of Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John L. Sparkman. At right is the correct cover for the present issue, which appears on most copies. The Democrat-Capital on Sunday almost duplicated Time's feat by using a post-election picture of Ike and his family as "the president elect and his family." We had one of Adlai and his family with the same caption, but it was filed for later use in time to be kept out of print. (NEA Telephone.)

Criticism Not To Deter Ike On Korea War

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL IN PENNSYLVANIA

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, opening his final drive of the election campaign, said today he will not be turned aside by any criticism from the view that South Korean troops should make the major portion of the battle line in Korea against the Communists.

He told a Philadelphia crowd jammed into the big concourse of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 30th Street station that he holds this view "entirely aside from any political considerations."

Eisenhower repeated his determination to go to Korea himself if he is elected President.

This statement, first made last Friday in Detroit, brought a barrage of criticism from the Democrats and Eisenhower apparently was referring to this reaction when he said he would not be deterred by criticism.

Governor Adlai Stevenson, his Democratic opponent for the presidency, has ridiculed Eisenhower's pledge, declaring that the solution to the Korean War lies in Moscow and not in Korea.

Police Commissioner Thomas A. Gibbons said, when the speech was finished, that about 4,000 persons had been in the huge amphitheater.

For a moment, the one-time European commander of all Allied forces paid tribute to the war effort of the railroad's memorial beside which he stood.

"They, so many of them, had to die," he said. "They believed in something. They believed they were fighting and if necessary dying for something men have been dying for since the dawn of history—the right of men, the freedom of men."

He said the reason he brought this up was because the threat to the world today is a doctrine that says "Man is nothing. He is the creature of the state."

"We must be on guard against that attack on every front, on every road from which it can approach us," Eisenhower said.

"I deplore every single kind of argument, charge or false assertion that is brought forward to accuse me or any man with this most evil of all crimes in our daily lives," he asserted.

"As we move into this last week of the political campaign we may expect new barrages of charges from every corner," the general said. "Every conceivable kind of charge will be hurled," he continued, that his "great crusade" wants to allow aged people to live and die in poverty, yank out the support of agriculture, bust labor, and social security and the like.

But, he said, these should be ignored and he pledged again that he will substitute good government for one that has allowed "subversion and crookedness to creep in."

"So long as we remain aware of our obligations to 156 million citizens we are not going to play off one class against another in the hope of getting a few more votes," Eisenhower said.

Bothwell Hospital Helping Patients Cast Absentee Votes

The Bothwell Memorial Hospital is participating in a Blue Cross program to get out the vote by issuing tray cards to patients bearing instructions about how to apply for and use a sickness absentee ballot, according to James Franks, administrator of the hospital.

The tray cards are being placed upon the food tray of every patient who is of voting age and who is registered. The cards tell the patient he may vote and to ask his nurse for details. Upon request the patient is given a form to fill out, which requests an official ballot.

"This form must be signed by a physician and must tell why the patient is unable to vote at his regular polling place. The request is then mailed to the county clerk, who immediately sends an absentee ballot to the patient."

The ballot must be signed in the presence of a notary public, and on hand for that job at Bothwell Hospital is Mrs. Delta Mae Russell, records librarian. The notarized ballot is then sent back to the election office so that it arrives no later than 6 p. m. Nov. 5.

According to Blue Cross, more than 6,500 persons will be in Blue Cross member hospitals on Nov. 4. The Blue Cross has also been urging persons who know they will be hospitalized on election day, such as expectant mothers, to vote before they go into the hospital.

These persons need only have a doctor's certificate and they may go to the local election office and vote there.

McCarthy Will Be Speaker—Adlai Says Greatest 'Smear' Of All Times Comes Tonight

ENROUTE WITH STEVENSON IN NEW ENGLAND

Gov. Adlai Stevenson declared today the nation will hear "the most magnificent of all smears of all times" tonight when Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) makes a nationwide broadcast on Communism.

Opening a blistering attack on the Republicans, the Democratic presidential candidate told a packed estimated crowd of some 2,000 at Quincy, Mass.:

"Tonight you will hear the most magnificent of all smears of all times when the junior senator from Wisconsin tries to save the election for the Republicans."

The crowd erupted with a chorus of "boos" on this reference to McCarthy, and Stevenson shouted: "I'm not worried, are you?" The crowd yelled "No! No!"

Stevenson's accusation that the Republicans are planning a last-minute smear campaign matched the statement from the Eisenhower camp last night that the Democrats—with President Truman in the lead—will loose a barrage of "below-the-belt" charges.

Last week in Cleveland, Stevenson asserted that Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower is conducting a smear campaign—and must bear the responsibility when such tactics are used.

McCarthy is scheduled to talk from Chicago (8:30-9 p. m. CST) over a nationally televised broadcast.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire — Eisenhower's campaign manager—said in a statement in New York that the general's political enemies planned to "stop at nothing this week" to win the election.

Stevenson told the Quincy gathering: "We are only a week away from our election and we still don't know precisely what the Republicans propose to do about anything."

On foreign policy which perhaps is our most important concern they have us completely confused. I have an idea that that is by design and intention."

He repeated that Eisenhower was "getting on the wrong bus" when he said he would go to Korea in an effort to find ways and means of ending the war there. And he insisted the war would be settled in Moscow—and not Korea.

Stevenson defended the Democratic record, and then said "We must press every effort to counteract, to neutralize and to turn back these poison forces of imperialism and Communism which the men in the Kremlin seek to spread across the whole world."

He said he was convinced the Democrats can make the nation strong and prosperous—"and if we can shall avoid world war three that would inevitably destroy both the world and our civilization."

Later at Brockton, Mass., he said "no one can say how long it will take to end the war in Korea—in a test of will it is dangerous to appear to falter."

Stevenson said he was "shocked" by Adams' statement that the Democrats would make a "smear campaign."

Again he said McCarthy would make an "eloquent smear" with the broadcast.

Stevenson told the Brockton crowd he appreciated the gift of a pair of shoes from Brockton earlier in the campaign. The shoes were sent after a news photo showed Stevenson had a hole in his right shoe while he was campaigning in Michigan.

"I needed the shoes, all right, but I think you need a man with a hole in his shoe more than a man with a hole in everything he said," the Illinois governor declared.

This was an obvious reference to Eisenhower.

Murder she yelled

By Joseph Shellit

THE STORY: In order to keep the good name of High Hill, a summer resort, unblemished, Al Kemmer, the proprietor, moved the body of a man murdered in gangster style to the grounds of a rival resort, Dan Morrison, athletic director, and Midge Burnett, who actually found the body, threaten to tell the police, but Al has sent an entertainer, Eddie Fields, to notify the officers with an anonymous call in Italian dialect. Officers find the body on the grounds of the rival resort, owned by Sam Stacey, and Al calls his competitor and insists him on the "kind of guests" he takes in. Stacey's reply makes Al think maybe Stacey put the body on High Hill in the first place.

EDDIE sat down on the wooden steps. "You ever hear of family where there wasn't a bl?"
"I wouldn't know."
"Sure—you got no relatives—you're the peacefullest man in the world. People like you ought to be put in jail for being a ha!"
"I have some cousins in California and I think I have an uncle somewhere in Canada."
"But you don't have a to them?"
"We don't even know—h other's addresses."
"That's the kind of relatives to have. Boy, that's the kind. You know—everybody thinks there's a law you got to like your others. Suppose they're not your type and you don't want to write to them, you don't want to have nothing to do with 'em? Why does everybody get so indignant?"

Eddie kept gazing across "Playland toward Harmony House, the married folks' cottage just beyond the tennis court, at the rim of the woods. When Roslyn appeared on the steps, he got into the station wagon. She was wearing a blue flowered dirndl and an orange blouse. Her hair was captured inside a bright blue babushka. Eddie smashed the gears into place and he bounced across the cinders toward the highway.
"Morrison," Eddie said, "you know how once a year it's Laurel Blossom Time in the Poconos? Okay—once a year it's Davey time. Official delegate from the whole family in Kansas City, Mo. How's our little Eddie making out? He never writes. Maybe he's in trouble. Dave, go visit Eddie and see how everything is. Same time, you can get your vacation at a discount."

THE bus station in the village was an informal affair—just the front porch of the drugstore. When we got there, the bus had already gone, and a man was standing on the porch beside a square-cornered canvas suitcase. An anxious smile flurried his face. He grabbed up the suitcase and came trotting toward us. He was wearing an Oxford gray suit and a straight-brim hat. It was really spectacular, the perfect horizontality of that hat. The man was about five foot six, which put him towering three inches above Eddie; but he had the same thin lips, the same washboard forehead.

Eddie got out of the station wagon and gave him a greeting that sounded all right, and Roslyn threw in a smile that belonged on a deathbed. Then Eddie introduced us. "Dave's in a department store," Eddie explained.
"Credit and collections," Dave added daintily.
I went down to the little sporting goods shop and picked up my tennis rackets, and then we drove back toward High Hill. I took the back seat, letting Dave sit with his relatives. The conversation ran out very fast.

We rode along in an itchy silence for awhile. Dave sat forward in his seat, hanging on the edge of speech. Finally he spoke to Eddie in a bitter tone. "You didn't even ask how Mom is."
"How's Mom?" Eddie said.
"She's fine." Then Dave added, "You don't care a bit how she is." There was some more silence. Then Dave blurted: "You write once in six months, not even that—and you never send a thing, not a single dollar. We have to keep up Mom's apartment and pay the insurance and everything else by ourselves. You wonder why we're angry?"

Roslyn turned big, poisonous eyes on her brother-in-law. "You've got a nerve!"
"Hold it, Ros, hold it!" Eddie pleaded. "Look—Dave, I get letters saying you don't want nothing from me, just a letter once in a while."
"That's right. Just so Mom won't worry."
"But now you're complaining I don't send money."
"You're a son, aren't you? Doesn't it ever occur to you that you have an obligation?"
"Stop it!" Eddie howled, his head swinging groggily from side to side. "Let's everybody calm down, will you, please?"
Al Kemmer was standing on the steps of the maintenance building when we pulled up. As we got out of the car, Dave whispered, "You arranged about special rates?"
"I was getting nervous," Eddie said. "I was beginning to think you weren't going to ask me that."

LATER in the afternoon I was on the stage of the Ritz Ballroom, while Eddie was rigging some wires that would make his hat perform all kinds of mysterious movements across the stage.
Leo Ritchie, the man Sally Ann had believed to be a wolf, was dancing with some of the girls. He was easily the tallest man at High Hill. He was slim-legged, slim-waisted, but broad at the shoulders and he gave the impression of strength. He was dark, had white teeth, a thin mustache and he wore sunglasses indoors and out.

Midge came in and called to Eddie, who came reluctantly down the ladder. She rushed him off into a corner. "Eddie! This is the one—remember that time?"
She pushed a newspaper containing a picture of the dead man out at him.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Wash Mer Go Rd Hed Harriman or Dewey Likely Next Secretary of State

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here is a rough idea as to how the cabinets of the two presidential candidates will stack up if elected:
The Eisenhower Cabinet
Secretary of State — Thomas E. Dewey. The Governor of New York went around the world to get up to date on foreign affairs, has been conferring with Acheson on foreign policy and has his heart set on this post. Since he was the best brain in putting across the General's nomination, he will probably get his reward.
Secretary of the Treasury —

Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National Bank, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller and a power in GOP politics. Aldrich has been one of the key men behind Ike.
Secretary of Defense — Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge. The original Eisenhower campaign manager, Lodge faces likely defeat in his Massachusetts race for re-election. He served in the Army and on the Senate Armed Services Committee.
Attorney General — Gov. Earl Warren of California.
Secretary of Agriculture — Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, now one

The World Today— Last Call for Vote Surprises

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the last call for surprises that might swing the election. If either side has one left, there's only one more week for springing it.
Just a fair-to-middling-sized scandal-bomb this late in the campaign might tip the scales since even the experts are unusually restrained this year and speak of the outcome with uncertainty.
At least a sensational last-minute disclosure has the advantage of giving the other side little time to repair the damage by answers, denials, explanations or explosions of its own.
The TV-radio talk of Sen. Joseph

R. McCarthy of Wisconsin—scheduled for tonight—on the subject of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and communism hardly comes strictly as a surprise.
McCarthy announced weeks ago he'd make it in the last week before election. This gave the Democrats plenty of time to prepare for it, or try to match it with some move of their own, if any.
McCarthy himself has been a prime issue in the campaign. He has been a controversial figure so long his effect on two large groups is predictable before he starts:
The esteem of those who applaud him is deepened; and those who despise him despise him even more. But both groups must contain waverers.
It's from a nonng these, and those with no fixed opinions about him, that McCarthy will try to win votes for Eisenhower, even if he provides no surprises. It's possible he may cost Eisenhower votes too.
But at least—coming in at this late hour—with the election outcome uncertain—McCarthy will always be able to claim credit for giving Eisenhower a big boost if the general wins.
And if Eisenhower loses, there's no machine for tabulating the votes the McCarthy talk might have cost the Republican party.
As if to try to offset McCarthy before he talks, Stevenson devoted almost a whole speech Saturday night to communism and Alger Hiss who will probably occupy a large role in McCarthy's speech.
If the Democrats are preparing a time-bomb of their own, they haven't been lighting any fuses where anyone could see them.

Truman Begins Swing After Lewis Talks

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

With TRUMAN (P)—Buoyed by what he called an assurance of John L. Lewis' co-operation in ending the soft coal strike, President Truman moved into the Midwest today on the final swing of his campaign to make Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson his successor in the White House.

Truman, with no speeches on his schedule until afternoon, spent an hour and a quarter today in the cab of the diesel engine pulling his 16-car campaign train.

"I had lots of fun up there," he told reporters after he alighted from the cab at Pittsburgh and walked along the tracks to the other end of the big train to re-board his private car.

He boarded his private car in Washington's Union Station last night after a conference with the United Mine Workers' chief, the head of the soft coal operators' association and the directors of government agencies involved.

After the meeting, Truman, who has drawn some Republican criticism that his presidential duties have been neglected during the political campaign, issued a statement saying:

"I have . . . urged Mr. Lewis . . . to use his best efforts to effect at once a resumption of work in the mines. Mr. Lewis has assured me of his co-operation."

When he arrived at the station to spend the night aboard his train, which left for Gary, Ind., at 4:30 a.m. (EST), Truman appeared to be in unusually good humor.

At Gary tonight, he will deliver the first of six speeches in his campaign windup.

Accompanied by his daughter Margaret, the President was off on a swing that will keep him stumping for Stevenson right up until the election.

The team of "Truman and Truman" expects to cover around 4,500 miles on this last tour, ending up at their home in Independence, Mo., where they will cast their votes before returning to Washington next week.

Today is an easy day for Truman with no speeches scheduled until 2:25 p.m. (EST) at Willard, O., and only one more, at Deshler, O., before he pulls into Gary, at 6:30 p.m. (EST), for a speech about 9 p.m. (EST) in the Memorial Auditorium.

His train goes through Cumberland, Md., and Pittsburgh for service stops, but he has already spoken at both cities.

The current campaign will take him into seven Midwestern states—Indiana, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Missouri—with major speeches Tuesday night at Hibbing, Minn.; Wednesday night, Chicago; Thursday night, Detroit; Friday night, Cincinnati; and Saturday night, St. Louis.

The St. Louis speech will wind up his major campaigning.

Last Year's Tickets Good for 2 Playhouse Plays This Season

The tickets sold last year by the Community Playhouse will be good for the two plays it will present this year. The group sold tickets for four plays last year but only two of the plays were given, and at that time an announcement was made that those having books of tickets should hold them for this year's plays.

The first play, "Very Untruly Yours," will be presented on Nov. 18 and 19, with Mr. Don Lamm Jr., a director.

The play is a comedy, very entertaining, and the cast is at work rehearsing every few nights while other members of the group are busy doing their part in preparation of the presentation.

Easter Night Wins Three Blue Ribbons At American Royal

Easter Night, the chestnut stallion owned by Gold Igenfritz of Sedalia, won three blue ribbons at the American Royal's horse show last week—probably more top ribbons than by any other horse.

So good was the Sedalia entry that it placed fourth in the stallion stage to Wing Commander, who Sunday was chosen as the grand champion five gaited horse of the show.

The blue ribbons won by Easter Night including one for stallions and geldings, novice class and the Kansas and Missouri championship.

Supreme Court Will Rule Over Firing of Picket Line Balkers

WASHINGTON (P)—The Supreme Court today agreed to say whether an employer may fire a worker for refusing to cross another worker's picket line at a customer's plant while on duty.

The court also agreed to rule on whether the 1947 portal-to-portal act puts a two-year time limit on the filing of suits by the United States charging child labor violations.

And the tribunal upheld by a 4-4 vote a decision that Bell Aircraft Corp. is entitled to reimbursements totaling $2,286,819 under cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts with the United States for large numbers of fighter planes.

The picket line case was appealed to the Supreme Court by the Justice Department, on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board.

The NLRB had asked the U. S. Circuit Court in New York to enforce a board ruling that Charles Waugh be reinstated with back pay as a truck driver by the Rockaway News Supply Co., Inc. The firm distributes newspapers and magazines on Long Island.

Waugh was a member of the Independent Deliverers' Union of New York and vicinity at the time he was fired in March 1950. He refused to cross a picket line at the office of the Nassau Daily Review-Star, in Rockville Center, N. Y. at the time members of the Nassau County Typographical Union were picketing the Daily Review-Star.

The circuit court in refusing to enforce the board order stated: "An employer is of course free to exercise his right to refuse to cross a picket line when he is on his own time. But he is not free to exercise the right during his working time in violation of his employer's working rules by refusing to perform that part of his regular duties which requires him to cross the picket line."

"To hold otherwise would be to permit an employer unilaterally to dictate the terms of his employment, which it is well settled he may not do."

Nashville Youth Held as Member Of Kidnap Gang

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (P)—A Nashville youth today faces a hearing on federal charges of kidnaping and car theft after he was arrested in three states hunt his partners in a wild kidnaping spree.

Virgil LeMay, 15, was placed under $12,000 bond in Nashville Saturday when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner J. W. Moore. He protested that he was forced to take part in the wholesale kidnaping of 20 persons in three days on penalty of death.

"I didn't kidnap anybody," he protested. "He forced me into it." LeMay referred to James F. Hill, 29, of Framingham, Mass., who with Charles E. Hopkins, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., also is charged in the case.

Both Hill and Hopkins are Florida ex-convicts. LeMay has served time in the state reformatory for purse snatching and truancy.

The trio split up in Atlanta Friday. Hopkins spent two nights at Scottsboro, Ala., before heading west toward Huntsville, using the name Billy Lauderdale the second night. Whereabouts of Hill remained a mystery to officers, but he had been reported hiding out somewhere in the Atlanta area.

At Scottsboro, some 45 airline miles southwest of here, Highway Patrolman Preston Bryant said Hopkins tipped out of a hotel before dawn yesterday and was last seen walking toward Huntsville. During their wild spree, which began at Valdosta, Ga., the trio stole four cars.

All of the victims escaped and none was injured seriously. Most were robbed of relatively small amounts of cash and valuables.

The picket line case was appealed to the Supreme Court by the Justice Department, on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board.

The NLRB had asked the U. S. Circuit Court in New York to enforce a board ruling that Charles Waugh be reinstated with back pay as a truck driver by the Rockaway News Supply Co., Inc. The firm distributes newspapers and magazines on Long Island.

Waugh was a member of the Independent Deliverers' Union of New York and vicinity at the time he was fired in March 1950. He refused to cross a picket line at the office of the Nassau Daily Review-Star, in Rockville Center, N. Y. at the time members of the Nassau County Typographical Union were picketing the Daily Review-Star.

The circuit court in refusing to enforce the board order stated: "An employer is of course free to exercise his right to refuse to cross a picket line when he is on his own time. But he is not free to exercise the right during his working time in violation of his employer's working rules by refusing to perform that part of his regular duties which requires him to cross the picket line."

"To hold otherwise would be to permit an employer unilaterally to dictate the terms of his employment, which it is well settled he may not do."

Nashville Youth Held as Member Of Kidnap Gang
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (P)—A Nashville youth today faces a hearing on federal charges of kidnaping and car theft after he was arrested in three states hunt his partners in a wild kidnaping spree.

Virgil LeMay, 15, was placed under $12,000 bond in Nashville Saturday when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner J. W. Moore. He protested that he was forced to take part in the wholesale kidnaping of 20 persons in three days on penalty of death.

"I didn't kidnap anybody," he protested. "He forced me into it." LeMay referred to James F. Hill, 29, of Framingham, Mass., who with Charles E. Hopkins, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., also is charged in the case.

Both Hill and Hopkins are Florida ex-convicts. LeMay has served time in the state reformatory for purse snatching and truancy.

Farm Recession Predicted by 1954 or 1955, Farmers Warned to Prepare Now

Reducing Cash Spending, Best Way to Begin

What is the outlook for farmers? On my desk is a report on this subject that appears to be worthy of consideration. This is from Gordon B. Nance, extension economist of the University of Missouri. He presented this information at the Missouri Bankers short course at Columbia recently. He said it now looks as though there were distant possibilities of a series of less favorable years beginning in 1954 or 1955. At all events it may be wise to begin to shape up your farming business for such a period.

Ways to Prepare
Some suggestions Mr. Nance make are: "In general these would mean working out of the more speculative and into safer enterprises, having indebtedness at comfortable manageable levels, and, perhaps in a year or so, giving serious consideration of how cash expenditures can be reduced without reducing income."

He pointed out that cash expenditures for farm operation in 1939 were only about six billion dollars while this year they will be near 24 billion dollars. He said that costs once built up, are stubborn and hard to beat down and that if and when farm prices and receipts decline, it will require skillful management to reduce costs proportionately.

No Depression Seen
Nance does not predict a depression, but instead says that a business recession of sizeable proportions is probable when war production declines. It now looks like this will be 1954 or 1955.

This material Mr. Nance presented should emphasize the importance of balanced farming, which may include many of the following:

- (1) Increase the fertility of the soil by correct use of lime and fertilizer and cropping systems that increase fertility and net income.
- (2) Improve the quality of livestock and poultry;
- (3) Reduce the overhead and cost of producing hogs by controlling intestinal parasites (best done by having clean pastures for hogs and pigs to graze);
- (4) Use sires of high quality with ability to transmit the desirable qualities to their offspring;
- (5) Cut down farming expense by having more improved pasture on properly fertilized soil;
- (6) Produce high yields of high quality vegetables for use while fresh, canning, storing and freezing (a two area garden improves quality and quantity and reduces insect problems);
- (7) Have commercial size flock or herds to justify investments in labor saving equipment;
- (8) Control erosion by getting more organic matter in the soil and by contouring and terracing;
- (9) Producing more per unit of labor to increase net income.— R. I. C.

Soybean Price Support Set At $2.56 Bushel

Price support of $2.56 a bushel, national average, for 1953-crop soybeans was announced today by the United States Department of Agriculture. Price support for 1952-crop soybeans, now being marketed, is also a national market, is also a national average of $2.56 a bushel.

Price support for 1953-crop is announced at this time in accordance with forward pricing provisions of existing agricultural legislation. The national average of $2.56 is 90 per cent of the current (Sept. 15, 1952) soybean parity price of $2.84 a bushel.

Price support will be carried out through loans and purchase agreements that will be available to producers from time of harvest

Balanced Farming Notes

In Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
Associate County Agent

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ream of Hughesville spent last Wednesday and Thursday at the American Royal as guests of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. This two day, all expense trip, was their award for having been named district winners last fall in the Balanced Farming contest. They represented a 6 county district including Jackson, Cass, Johnson, Lafayette, Saline and Pettis counties.

The two day stay included reservations at the Hotel President, dinner, luncheons, entertainment and all the various events of the American Royal Show itself.

Water Management At Wagenknecht's
A couple of weeks ago I mentioned that we had a "jargon" in erosion control and soil improvement work. At that time I was discussing several kinds of concrete and metal structures for letting water down from terrace outlets to natural water courses and told where several had recently been installed.

Now we call the "overall job of locating terrace outlets, terraces, diversions, structures and ponds and figuring their size" as "water management". The majority of folks who join the Balanced Farming Association do so to obtain assistance with one or more phases of water management. Of course they usually also get help with soil, crops, livestock and pasture plans and often with farmstead arrangement and home remodeling problems.

I have taken some time to get down to one of our newest members, Mr. Millard Wagenknecht and Sons of Ottumwa. The farm is located about 2 miles northeast of Smithton. The first thing the Wagenknechts desired help on was through January, 1954. The soybeans must grade No. 4 or better and contain not more than 14 per cent moisture.

County support rates will take into consideration appropriate differentials for class, grade, quality, and location, and will reflect to producers the national average support price. Loans and purchase agreements will be obtainable through county committees of the Produce and Marketing Administration.

There are 2 divisions. One is based 80 percent on progress made in 1952 with previous progress counting 40 percent. Two plaques are available for the 2 winners in this class. The other division is for showing total progress since a family started in a Balanced Farming program. The county winners in this class will compete with similar winners from the other 5 counties in the district. This district award was won by the Tom Reams of Hughesville last year.

ELECTION RESULTS OF 1948—Above Newsmap shows how various states voted in the last presidential election. The Democrats hope to hold these states and lure the dissident States' Rights faction back into the fold, giving them 342 electoral votes and the presidency. The Republicans also have their plan—hold the 16 states they carried in 1948 with 189 electoral votes, and take Washington, Idaho, California, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio, all with Republican leanings. This would give them 316 electoral votes, 50 more than the 266 needed to win.

How to Profit With Cattle Seen at Sale

Two Pettis County farmers attended a feeder cattle sale at Milan recently. These men, C. S. Arnold and Walter Nicholson, reported that the one of the three days sale they saw indicated that a substantial improvement had been made in the quality of cattle produced in Sullivan county. At least they were well pleased with the high quality of cattle sold.

They estimated that about 80 to 85 per cent of the cattle sold were calves. The policy at Milan, these men reported, evidently is to accept no cattle at the sale which would have been old enough to sell at the previous sale one year earlier.

The quality of the majority of cattle sold was good. This attracted a substantial number of buyers from the corn belt of Iowa and Illinois who are willing to pay substantially more for well bred cattle, say Arnold and Nicholson.

True some buyers want to secure common cattle. They know how to buy and handle this type of cattle to make a profit over a period of years. To secure this profit the purchase price is less than for better cattle as the latter sell for a higher price.

The man who raises the lower quality of calves, selling them for $5 to $10 less per cwt. is failing to realize a substantial profit on his enterprise. Three calves weighing 450 pounds selling for $16 per cwt. bring $216. Two calves weighing 450 pounds, selling for $24 per cwt. also bring $216.

This actually happened. Who "gets it in the neck"? The buyer may make as much or more profit from feeding the poorer quality of calves as he buys them much lower. The man who raises the 1,350 pounds of beef selling for $16 per cwt. is the loser, of course.

To recount the above may seem silly. If writing this is silly, the doing of it is far worse than silly. It's costly and hurts the family of the producer as it results in a lower standard of living. True there usually is some extra expense necessary to produce the higher quality calves. The question for the producer to ask is the extra cost worth the returns. If the breeding is inferior a good bull is the great need.

Thirty spring calves, sired by a good bull, weighing 450 pounds selling for $24 per cwt. bring $3,240 as compared to $2,160 if they sell for $16 per cwt. This is $1,080 more. This difference or even half this difference in receipts

PMA Committee Members Get Ready to Work

"The Pettis County PMA community committeemen have received their second and last day of training in preparation for contacting farm owners and operators in the county for the purpose of explaining the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program and offering the opportunity to sign the Request for Assistance," stated James A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis County Production and Marketing Administration.

During the months of November and December the community committeemen will endeavor to contact all farmers in their own will pay the extra cost for the right kind of a bull. The bull does not need to have a popular name to do this job. The ability to sire calves that bring the extra is all that is necessary.

Other items may cause some of this difference in selling price. The ability of the dams to drop good calves and to nurse them well is important. Improvement in the cow herd may, of necessity, come slower. Saving the heifers sired by a bull that is better than the cows is moving in this direction. This takes time, true, but it's going in the right direction.

Proper pasture is important and is not to be ignored. Other items are disease and parasite control. It's not too early to lay plans for a good calf crop in 1954. You will want to have a bull of serviceable age next April or May to sire those good calves in January, February and March in 1954. You may want to buy a young bull this fall and grow him up to serviceable age in the next spring. Whether you get him this fall or in February or March is not the point—the important thing is to get him. R. I. C.

communities to discuss the farmer's conservation plans for the coming year and assist them in determining how they may use ACP assistance to the best advantage in carrying out the most needed practices on their farms.

The county PMA office has mailed letters to all Pettis County land owners and operators briefly explaining the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program and enclosed a leaflet listing the eleven soil building and conserving practices approved for the county with the hope farmers will study and consider their most needed practices before they are visited by their community committeemen, explained Harvey.

NOW YOU CAN BEAT THE WEEVIL!

with PYRONONE DUSTING POWDER

Since we live in a section of the country where weevil destroys a fourth of the stored grain it is big news to offer a powder to be used in open granaries to prevent weevil. This Pyronone Dusting Powder should be mixed into the grain as it is being stored. It will not kill weevil by being dusted on top of grain that has already been put into storage. Use 10 pounds of this powder to a hundred bushels of grain. The cost is 25c per pound or $2.50 per 100 bushel. Old cribs should be thoroughly cleaned out and sprayed with a solution of D.D.T. before using. We have it in stock.

T-C Sportsmen Beat Moose 73-67 Sunday

The Sedalia Moose Club basketball team came upon a stumbling block Sunday in a "substitute" game. The Town and Country Sportsmen were substituted for the Stover Cagers for the Sunday afternoon game at Whittier gym, then went on to win 73-67 in overtime.

Stover notified the Moose that team was unable to make the trip Sunday and the Town and Country team was invited to "fill in." The Moose had anticipated a real "push over" when they met Sedalia's other basketball squad. Town and Country wasn't too sure what was going to happen.

Jumping into the lead the Moose took the first stanza 16-9 and at the half time period the Moose had a 12-point lead of 35-23. In the third quarter the Moose tallied 21 points and the Sportsmen 23 to bring the score to 56-46.

The fourth quarter was a real battle all the way with the Moose trying to hold the Sportsmen and the latter battling on through to score 16 point to the Moose six and knot the game 62-62.

In the overtime period the Sportsmen came through to score 11 points while the Moose were able to muster only five points.

Cisimo Only Kicks Points When Needed

WACO, Tex. (AP) — If there's a game to be won and there isn't much time to do it, Baylor calls on C. O. (Cismo) Brocato. His kicking toe is the most valuable piece of football equipment at the university.

Brocato, a Catholic, has won four games and tied another in the last 13 games he has played for this Baptist school. Cismo doesn't kick the points after touchdown except when they are needed. For instance, he missed four conversions out of five the day Baylor played Washington State. He failed to get a single one through the uprights last season when Baylor played Texas. But Baylor beat Washington State was no need for Cismo to kick them.

Just put the chips on the line last Saturday. Baylor had tied the score at 20-20 with three minutes to go in its game with Texas A & M. Brocato trotted out and put his third extra point through as 40,500 watched.

It's always like that when the "granpa" of the Baylor squad is called upon. The 24-year-old Shreveport, La., athlete, kicked the first field goal he ever tried. It was last year against Arkansas and was for 13 yards. It won the game. Against Texas A & M, he booted three for three to bring a 21-21 tie. He kicked two for two to give Baylor a 14-13 win over SMU.

Against Wake Forest this season he kicked a 14-yard field goal with 14 seconds to go to hand Baylor a 17-14 decision.

National Grid League Chases Cleveland Browns

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League—where the boys play for "dear old gold and silver"—headed toward the halfway point today with the American Conference engaged in its annual pastime — chasing the Cleveland Browns.

With Lou Groza kicking four field goals, the Browns rallied to defeat the Washington Redskins, 19-15, yesterday to take a one-game lead in the American Conference.

While the Browns were moving in front, the unbeaten San Francisco 49ers (5-0) held their two-game bulge in the National Conference by blasting the winless Dallas Texans, 48-21.

The New York Giants and Chicago Cardinals, both tied with Cleveland before the day's action, were upset by teams which were decided underdogs.

The Philadelphia Eagles, 15½-point underdogs, stunned the Giants, 14-10, with crunching line play and a brilliant 52-yard punt return by Ed Bawel.

And Pittsburgh, winless in four games and 12-point underdogs, surprised the Cards, 34-28, as Jim Finks passed for three touchdowns.

No Conference Tilts In MCU; Jewell vs. Rolla

KANSAS CITY (AP) — M. C. A. U. football teams devote their activity to games with non-conference opponents this week. No league games are scheduled.

The William Jewell Cardinals, who had their perfect record sheared in a 20-20 tie with McPherson (Kas) College last Saturday, will meet a tough opponent in the Rolla Miners at Liberty Friday.

Also on tap Friday will be the Missouri Valley B teams against Tarkio's undermanned Owls. The game will not count in the standings.

Culver-Stockett plays at Iowa Wesleyan Thursday and Central at Quincy, Ill., Saturday.

The championship game will be played at Liberty Nov. 7 between

Sports Roundup—Dispute Follows Disbanding Of Loop Over 'Scandal' Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball League, oldest of the professional cage groups, has been disbanded because two of its member teams insisted on playing men who were involved in last year's "dumpling" scandals.

Upsets Mar Bowl Plans Of Few Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of year that the titans of college football usually begin looking forward to the gold of bowl games and the glory of conference titles.

Not this time. The muscle-men, noting the trend of things, are quaking as they come to each game. The upsets haven't been startling but each one of the big boys are biting the dust.

If Iowa, the punching bag of the Big Ten, can whip Ohio State, and Southern California can shut out California—a feat that hadn't been accomplished in 60 games—nothing should be a surprise.

Perhaps the only certainty, and that's going out on the limb, is that Michigan State and Maryland are the class of the country insofar as the records are concerned. Neither has stumbled even once, and each has shown a wealth of power and an ability to stop the enemy when it counts.

Right behind are once-tied Oklahoma and two Southern powers, Georgia Tech and Duke. The unbeaten list should be reduced by one come Saturday when Tech and Duke collide head-on at Durham, N. C.

Until this week, California was high up on the list. Then Southern California whipped the Golden Bears, 10-0.

Now the Pacific Coast race is up in the air. Cal still can win it, but Southern Cal and UCLA, which like the Trojans, is undefeated, will have plenty to say. UCLA meets the Golden Bears this Saturday and if they can answer the question, they might win it.

Georgia Tech and Duke will play the headline game of the South. Both the Engineers will rule slight favorites. Both warned up to their tasks Saturday, Tech clouting Vanderbilt, 30-0, and the Blue Devils conquering previously undefeated Virginia, 21-7.

Fearful Maryland, which whipped Louisiana State, 34-6, will test its might once again against Boston University.

The Big Ten also is unsettled. Illinois and Wisconsin both were supposed to fight it out for the title with the Badgers probably going to the Rose Bowl in any event because the Illini were there last year. Today, the Illini are in the cellar.

Overlooked in the pre-season ratings and Michigan are leading the loop. And Purdue's 40-12 triumph over Illinois Saturday would indicate that the boiler-makers are getting more confident as the season progresses. If they can do that to the Illini, they ought to be able to take it.

Nor is anything settled in the Southwest Conference. However, Texas is looking more and more like the class of the league. The Longhorns slugged Arkansas right out of the running Saturday, 20-7, and now take on Southern Methodist. Both are undefeated in league play.

In the Ivy League, Yale, which currently is tied with Penn for the lead, each with 34 marks, faces Dartmouth, which should be set up for the Elis. Penn must play Penn State, no cinch, in a non-league encounter. Princeton, the defending champion, entertains Brown after whom Cornell 27-0.

In the Big Seven, championship Oklahoma figures to run through a workout at the expense of Iowa State, and Kansas, the runner-up, should have no trouble with Kansas State. Missouri and Nebraska play the top game from a competitive standpoint.

Oklahoma A and M and Tulsa go at each other in what could be a game to decide the championship of the Missouri Valley. In the Sky-line Conference Utah and Colorado A and M probably will fight it out for the title when they meet Nov. 8.

The Aggies will rest up this week, but Utah will entertain Colorado of the Big Seven. Idaho State is expected to clinch a share of the Rocky Mountain crown by defeating Colorado Mines Saturday.

William Jewell and Missouri Valley, each having two conference victories, will meet Nov. 15.

William Jewell yielded a touchdown in the last quarter that enabled McPherson to gain a tie. The Cardinals struck back hard to the McPherson five-yard line late in the game, but failed to score.

MU-Sooners To Decide Big 7 Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri and Nebraska, neither given a kind word in pre-season guessing, will meet at Lincoln, Neb., Saturday in a football game that will determine the Big Seven Conference leader for at least another week.

Coach Don Faurot's Missouri Tiger top the league standings by virtue of the 19-0 victory over Iowa State last Saturday. It was their second Big Seven success against no losses.

Nebraska, a two-touchdown underdog, outgained and outplayed Colorado in a 16-16 tie at Boulder to bring its conference record to two victories and one tie. That's the same mark held by mighty Oklahoma, which came from behind to tie the Colorado 21-21 Sept. 27.

And while Missouri and Nebraska are butting heads, Oklahoma and Kansas are expected to move along in routine fashion. Oklahoma shouldn't have too much trouble with Iowa State at Ames. Kansas will be a heavy favorite over Kansas State at Manhattan.

Colorado has a non-conference date with Utah in Salt Lake City. Two days ago Oklahoma trimmed Kansas State as expected, 49-6 with five players scoring and full-back Buck McPhail coming up with his nearest blocking of the season. Bright spot in the K-State play was brilliant defensive work of Veyl (Joe) Switzer, Negro half-back, who was credited with 15 tackles in the open and assisted with 5 others.

"I'm sorry, Robby," he said placatingly. "I guess I was a little hating in calling that one. But it did start outside, as you saw, and I had no way of knowing it would come back in. I'm sorry, Robby."

All the time this was going on Stengel just stood at the plate with a stunned look. He hadn't said a word. Suddenly Klem wheeled on him.

"As for you, you nut," he belittled, "go back to the bench and sit down!"

The full extent of the outrage didn't occur to Casey until he was laid in the dugout. Then he proceeded to demolish the water cooler.

"And for that," he stormed, "I get called a nut."

Golf's Veterans, Over 55, Play In Own Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Their once-booming drives no longer winging down the fairways 250 yards and more as in days of yore, 240 veterans, 55 years and over, swarmed over two courses today in the qualifying round of the inaugural North and South Senior Invitation Golf Tournament.

The oldsters came into their own at the Pinehurst Country Club's No. 1 and 2 courses as the tournament—a replacement for the discontinued 50-year-old North and South Open—began a week's run. Twenty-eight states and Canada were represented on the entry list.

Tom Robbins, of New York, winner of this year's U. S. Senior crown, heads the field, which includes the national runnerup, Paul Hyde, Buffalo, N. Y., and such worthies as Chicago's Chick Evans, Al Ulmer, Jacksonville, Fla., and Harrison Smith of Oklahoma City.

Jewell's Al Conway Is Leading Scorer Of College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Conway of unbeaten-once tied William Jewell (Mo) is the leading scorer in college football today with 84 points. Conway, a halfback, has tallied 14 touchdowns in six games.

Mac Moore of Sam Houston State is second with 79 points. Buddy Leake of Oklahoma is the top scorer in the Big Seven Conference with 61 points. Willie Roberts of Tulsa leads the Missouri Valley Conference with 42 points and Gib Dawson of Texas is tops in the Southwest Conference, also with 42.

passer only, started at quarter. Jim Hook, the running and passing quarterback, operated at left half. Fullback Roweckamp was at right half and left half Nick Carrawas at fullback. Scardino, by the way, made the longest run of the game, a 44-yard jaunt in the third.

Tony had pass completions in all three Missouri scoring drives. Oklahoma hasn't missed a scoring bet all season. The Sooners have converted after every touchdown. Buddy Leake got 7 Saturday to run his string to 25. McPhail has 5 to 3. All America tackle Jim Weatherall hit two straight against Oklahoma A & M in the last game of 1951, giving the Sooners a string of 32 conversions.

Counties That Always Pick Winner Differ

NEW YORK (AP)—If signs mean anything in those 11 counties which brag a bit about picking all the presidential winners since William McKinley and 1896, Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower looks like the victor this time.

But some of the counties seem sure to have their reputations ruined a week from tomorrow. Newspaper editors and correspondents who took part in a mid-October political survey for the Associated Press estimate that seven of the 11 might go Republican, four Democratic.

These are the "bellwether" or "weather-vane" counties, scattered through eight states from coast to coast: Crook County, Oregon; Albany and Laramie Counties, Wyoming; Jasper and Palo Alto Counties, Iowa; Vanderburgh County, Indiana; Belmont County, Ohio; Marion County, West Virginia; Fayette County, Pennsylvania; Stafford and Coos Counties, New Hampshire.

Newsmen sized them up this way in the AP survey: "Somebody's going to be wrong in Wyoming this year. Albany County has been on the winning side since 1892 and editors expect it to back Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower. Laramie County has been with the winner since 1896 and editors give Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson a narrow edge there.

New Hampshire's two barometer counties are considered likely to give Eisenhower "a very slight edge." Editors see several factors favoring the GOP:

The Democratic plurality has been dropping in recent national elections. The vote may set a record this year. Wounds aren't entirely healed from the primary scrap between President Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Layoffs in mill regions are resented. Some Democrats are cool toward Truman campaign utterances.

Vanderburgh County, Ohio, in which Evansville is located, has been visited by both Eisenhower and Stevenson.

On the basis of a postcard poll, the Evansville Press estimates the county will toss 52 per cent of its vote to Eisenhower, 48 per cent to Stevenson.

Next door in Ohio, Belmont County looks like Stevenson territory. Coal and steel are the big industries.

A bit farther east, in Marion County, West Virginia, this is the word from C. E. Smith, veteran editor of the Fairmont Times, a staunch Democrat and Stevenson supporter:

"Marion County has proved an accurate political barometer through the years because its diversified population is a cross-section of the whole country. I used to be able to forecast how the country was going by walking up and down Main Street just before election day, talking to the people.

"There is no reason to believe that the county will not go Democratic this year."

Fayette County, Pennsylvania, in the heart of the soft coal region, seems likely to back Stevenson, too.

But Joseph L. Dickson, editor of the Uniontown Herald, expects the Democratic margin to be smaller than in past elections.

Iowa's two bellwether counties are considered Republican this year. Jasper County is an industrial and agricultural area, Palo Alto a farming county.

Crook County, Oregon, has been switching around. In early September it seemed pointed toward Stevenson. Now it is believed reasonably sure to like Ike.

Farmers and laborers make up the bulk of the voters in a county that shows signs of weariness at being polled over and over.

Fauk Drops Out Of Matchbox Society

LONDON (AP)—The British Society of Philhellenists has lost its most famous member and all because of a trifling $2.15.

Philhellenists collect matchbox labels. Their most famous member was Egypt's ex-King Farouk and the $2.15 was the annual subscription fee.

The society's secretary, Charlie Crampton, reported with regret at the group's annual meeting last night that Farouk hadn't paid up for 1952. But he said there might be an excuse—that Farouk probably had something else on his mind at the time. The monarch abdicated three days after the fee was due.

Political Front In Big States—Texas' Block of Electoral Votes In Doubt for 2nd Time

(Editor's Note: There are six big states which have among them more than one-third of all the electoral votes in the country. In a series of daily stories, The Associated Press is presenting the picture in these states, as seen by experienced AP political writers on the scene.)

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Two and a half million Texas voters may hold the key to the White House door for either Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Texas' 24 electoral votes—sixth biggest block in the nation—are in doubt for the first time since 1928 and the second time this century.

A Democratic rebellion that splintered off segments of the once-solid Texas party in 1948 split it wide open this year.

For the first time in history, a Democratic governor of Texas has joined the Republicans in backing their presidential candidate, Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Pressure with New Deal and Fair Deal policies boiled over when Stevenson said he could not agree with Texas claims to submerged offshore lands and their potential—and disputed—oil wealth.

The revolt brought an open alliance between Shivers, his established state party machinery and a militant Republican organization making its first serious effort in a quarter of a century to win the Texas electoral vote. Nothing like it had ever happened in historically Democratic Texas.

The outcome is so uncertain that both parties for the first time sent their presidential candidates crisscrossing the state. Democratic vice-presidential candidate John Sparkman was scheduled to speak in Texas but had to cancel because of illness. Republican Richard Nixon comes to Texas for a return visit today.

The Associated Press' second 1952 survey of political thinking in Texas confirmed the professional politicians' views that in mid-October the outcome here was uncertain. In August the survey by newspapermen showed they believed Eisenhower held a narrow margin, with many voters uncertain.

The uprising by Shivers and other state Democratic leaders such as Atty. Gen. Price Daniel, unopposed nominee for the U. S. Senate, was met by a combat team from the national party. It was headed by House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson. They enlisted an unexpected ally in former Vice President John N. Garner, who came out of political retirement to endorse Stevenson.

The big question today is whose side the rank and file voters will join, especially the large number still apparently undecided. Texas' potential vote is 2½ million and best estimates are the turn out will be another record-breaking 1½ million to 1,800,000.

The voters may stay hitched with Democratic tradition, backed by appeals to their distrust of Republicans generally, fear of depression, and prosperity arguments.

Or they may line up with Shivers, who says the issue is "good government or bad. Trumanism, corruption, creeping socialism" and especially the question of who controls offshore submerged lands claimed by Texas since it was a republic.

Texas has not given its electoral vote to a Republican since Herbert Hoover squeezed out a narrow victory over Al Smith in 1928.

Conservative Texas Democrats began breaking away from the New Deal in 1940. The revolt—still with in the party—grew in 1944 and 1948. It led to development of two feuding factions: the conservatives headed by a succession of anti-New Deal governors; the liberals, with leaders like Rayburn and Johnson.

Conservative Democratic governors have won every race over New Deal opponents in recent years, but they stayed reluctantly in the national party.

Shivers headed a conservative Texas delegation to the Chicago convention in July. It was seated after a contest with a rival liberal slate when Shivers promised to do all he could to see to it the Democratic presidential nominee's name would be printed on the ballot in the usual Democratic column.

The State Convention in September fulfilled the pledge. Then it overwhelmingly urged Shivers and all state party leaders to back Eisenhower. They did so by forming an organization known as the Texas Democrats for Eisenhower, whose leadership overlaps that of the Central State Democratic Committee.

That's when the national party called on Rayburn to hurry back to Texas and rally the liberal or "loyalist" faction into a working organization to fight for Stevenson.

Stevenson spoke six times here. He left saying it would be a "national tragedy" for freedom-loving Texans to desert the Democratic party and vote for the "carpetbaggers, the friends of reaction, the men of little vision, indecision and isolationism."

Rayburn said response to Stevenson's speeches was a sure sign that he would carry Texas, that Republican claims to the contrary were propaganda.

Eisenhower and his friends were equally confident.

The Republican candidate fed the fires of Democratic revolt. Everywhere he went he was surrounded and acclaimed by erstwhile Democrats.

He begged Texas Democrats to allow principle to prevail over a party label and established voting habits. "Texans are not in anybody's bag. No one can deliver a Texas vote but a Texan," he said.

The Republicans are claiming they will get from 54 to 58 per cent of the vote Nov. 4.

They are looking to the big cities such as Houston, Dallas, Ft. Worth and San Antonio for their chief support.

The Democrats are counting on considerable big city strength, plus general support in smaller cities and towns and in the country. Thus any election return depends from this pattern may tell the story of who takes Texas.

More Air Travel This Campaign Than In Any Previously

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Transport Association presented statistics today to show that air travel has been used far more extensively in the 1952 presidential campaign than in any other.

By election day, the ATA estimates the candidates for president and vice president and the leading senatorial speakers supporting them will have flown more than 200,000 miles.

About half of this total is being clocked on regularly scheduled airline flights and the other half in airplanes chartered from association members. ATA represents the scheduled airlines.

The association's summary indicated the rival leading candidates are using air transport in about equal amounts. The two presidential nominees, it said, already have accounted for almost 45,000 miles, with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower having flown only about 1,000 miles more than Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Walk On Railroad Track Ends In Death

MACON, Mo. (AP)—Ben O. Powell, 75, of Macon went for a walk along the Burlington railroad tracks Sunday and was killed by a train.

He had started across the bridge over the East Fork River, two miles west of Macon, apparently unaware of the approach of a westbound passenger train. A companion, Bill Riley, called a warning but the train knocked Powell from the bridge before he could scramble to safety.

Puerto Rico Election Has Same Issues

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Puerto Rico's political campaign is going full blast with expenses in government and the situation in Korea two of the main issues as the island votes for the first time Nov. 4 under the new commonwealth Constitution.

A more liberal representation in the Legislature is guaranteed constitutionally for the minority parties.

Two of the opposition parties have made reference to the Puerto Rican soldiers fighting in Korea and the large number of casualties reported. Gov. Munoz Marin, also president of the majority Popular party, has taken hot issue with their arguments.

Main change in the elections this year, brought forth by the commonwealth, is the increased number of legislators who will be elected. The Organic Act, the island's equivalent to a constitution before July 5 of this year, provided for a House of Representatives of 29 members and a Senate of 19 members. This year the island will be voting for 51 representatives and 27 senators.

Currently, there are only two representatives and one senator from the opposition. Under the new Constitution, no party will have such a complete control of the Legislature. Whenever one party gets more than two-thirds of the members in either house, the electoral system provides for election of additional candidates of the minority parties, split according to their total votes.

The highest number of voters ever registered was achieved for this year's vote with a total of 882,030.

Here is a resume of party issues:

Statehood party — Wants Puerto Rico to become a state of the United States. The island could manufacture all of its sugar crop. Spokesmen charge the administration with paying exceedingly high salaries to top men in government, thus forcing an increased tax burden on the people.

Independence party — Wants Puerto Rico to get full independence. Gilberto Concepcion de Gracia, party president, in radio speeches has insisted the island would have a real democracy only when independent.

Popular party — The government party since 1940 stands mainly on its 12-year history of promises which have been fulfilled, as the records show. Party spokesmen, including Gov. Munoz, call attention to the higher standard of living reached in the last 12 years and the great advances made in getting medical aid, public schooling, social aid and other advantages to the people.

Independence Examiner, In Harry's Hometown, Comes Out for General

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—The Independence Examiner, the hometown newspaper of President Truman, Saturday came out in support of Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for President.

The newspaper in a frontpage editorial announced its support of Eisenhower on the national level, but endorsed Democratic candidates on the state and local levels.

It endorsed only one other Republican candidate for national office, supporting the candidacy of Jeffrey Hillelson over Leonard Irving for congressman of the Fourth Missouri district.

The editorial in part read: "The best interests of the nation now and in the years immediately ahead urge the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower as President."

The Examiner was acquired in February, 1951 by the Stauffer Publications, which publishes newspapers in several Missouri and Kansas cities. T. Hall Collins is manager and Sam Smith is editor of the newspaper.

Hattie McDaniel, 'Beulah', Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Hattie McDaniel, the "Beulah" of radio and television and an Academy Award-winning movie actress, died yesterday of cancer. She was 57.

Miss McDaniel was the first member of the Negro race to receive an academy award, won in 1939 for the portrayal of Scarlett O'Hara's mammy in "Gone With the Wind."

Pilots Will Decide Action When Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force is leaving it to its pilots and overseas commanders the decision of what to do if Soviet fighters again attack American planes flying peaceable missions over non-Russian territory.

A USAF spokesman made it plain today, in answer to questions, that the crews of a plane, like the B29 shot down by Russian fighters over Japanese waters earlier this month, has the right to fire back in self-defense.

However, the American plane downed by Soviet gunfire Oct. 7 could not have fired back because it wasn't prepared for shooting. Its guns were "tied down" during the routine training flight to the Northern tip of Hokkaido.

Another answer by the spokesman indicated the Air Force now is ready to cope with any such attacks by Soviet fighters by assigning a fighter-escort when needed. The spokesman said, "Day-to-day tactical considerations dictate whether escort is provided."

This double-barreled self-defense program—apparent blanket authority for plane crews to protect themselves and for commanders to assign fighter escort when needed—seems directly related to the formal note sent to Russia by the State Department Oct. 17.

That note, protesting the Oct. 7 incident and demanding compensation for the loss of the B29 and the eight men aboard, urged the "Soviet government seriously to consider the grave consequences which can flow from its reckless practice, if persisted in, of attacking without provocation the aircraft of other states."

Apparently, one grave consequence could be the failure of Russian fighters to return to base after an attack on American aircraft.

After World War II it became Air Force practice to send out escorted planes on routine weather surveys and similar missions in Far East and European areas near Soviet-controlled territory.

The spokesman said: "In no case do these routine scheduled flights impinge on territory of other nations unless by specific prior agreement."

"Infrequent day B29 combat reconnaissance flights over North Korea may be provided fighter escort for periods in which enemy fighter attacks could be launched."

"The routine flight of the B29 lost over Hokkaido, Japanese territory, was noncombat, and therefore, was unescorted."

"Routine noncombat flights by B29s are generally performed under visual conditions to insure that there is no intentional border violation."

During the last two years Soviet interceptor planes have made a number of deadly or alarmingly close attacks on United States aircraft. The first serious incident occurred in 1950, shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War, when Red planes shot down an American Navy plane over international waters in the Baltic Sea.

From time to time, Soviet fighters, by closing in on and firing near misses, have harassed U.S. aircraft flying the air corridor from Western Europe to Berlin.

Rufus W. Kaiser Serves In Germany

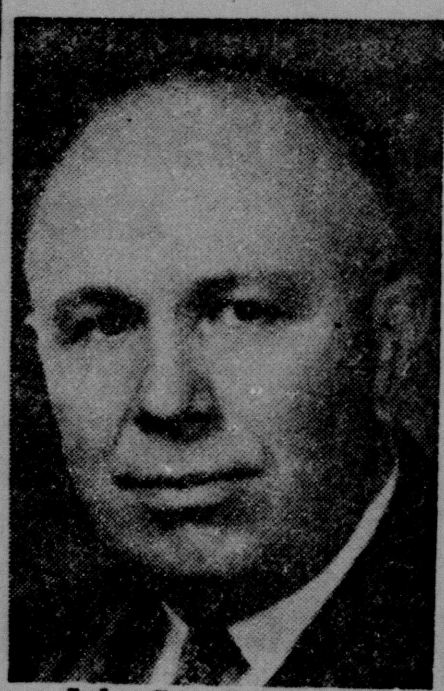

WITH THE SECOND ARMORED DIVISION IN GERMANY — Army Pvt. Rufus W. Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Kaiser, Cole Camp, recently arrived in Germany and is now serving with the Second Armored Division.

Part of western Europe's NATO Army, his unit is conducting training maneuvers in the U. S. Occupation Zone of Germany. Called the "Hell On Wheels" Division, it was the first American outfit to enter Berlin toward the end of World War II.

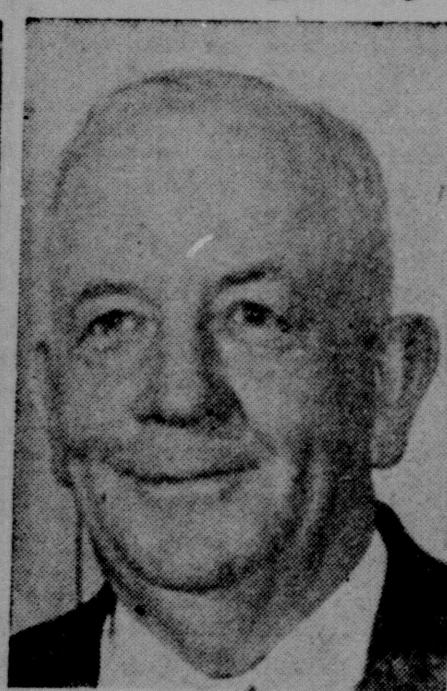

Private Kaiser arrived in Europe on September 19 and joined the division a week later. A 1949 graduate of Cole Camp High School, he entered the Army last April.

Non-Partisan Court Plan Jeopardized by Voter Apathy

Judge C. A. Leddy, Jr.

Judge Ernest M. Tipton

Judge S. P. Dalton

Judge Frank Hollingsworth

The Missouri Bar, headed by Lynn M. Ewing, Nevada, is concerned over the apparent lack of interest shown by voters in Missouri's non-partisan court plan.

The non-partisan court plan is in jeopardy because a large percentage of voters do not ask their election clerks for the Judicial Ballot when they go to the polls.

The Missouri Court plan, a composition of the best from many plans, and the result of many years of study and discussion has had a continual struggle for its survival.

After several attempts to secure its submission to the people by the legislature, further efforts were made to secure adoption of the plan by presenting it to the people by use of the initiative petition.

In November, 1940, the plan was adopted by the people, then in November, 1942, it was resubmitted and again the people showed their approval of it. They showed that they knew what they were voting for, for in 1940 they defeated all other amendments except the one providing for the Missouri Court plan, and in 1942 they approved all amendments except the one repealing the Court plan.

Missouri's Court Plan has been hailed throughout the nation as the best plan yet devised to keep the courts out of politics but past elections have shown that only about half as many votes are cast for judges as in elections for other state officers.

The small number of judicial ballots voted, warns the Bar Association, constitutes a real threat to the independence of Missouri's courts, in that a small well organized pressure group could defeat a good judge.

None Hurt When Fastest Airliner Makes Belly Landing

ROME (AP) — One of Britain's eight-mile-a-minute Comet jet airliners raced into the air off Rome's Ciampino Airport last night, wobbled momentarily and then smashed back to earth in a belly landing.

None of the 36 passengers and six crew members aboard the world's fastest airliner was hurt, although the plane was badly damaged.

Officials of British Overseas Airways said the cause of the accident had not been determined. The plane was taking off on the second leg of its London-to-Johannesburg flight.

No Honeymoon Today For 'Miss America'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Beautiful Jackie Loughery of Brooklyn, "Miss USA of 1952," couldn't take time out today for a honeymoon after her marriage to singer Guy Mitchell.

They were wed yesterday at the Little Brown Church in the Valley, Mitchell arrived from Sacramento, Calif., just in time for the ceremony.

The 21-year-old Brooklyn beauty won the "Miss USA" title during the Miss Universe contest at near-by Long Beach last June. She will report for work at a film studio today. Mitchell starts a singing engagement in Hollywood tomorrow.

Hurricane Losing Force In Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Caribbean hurricane that ripped across Cuba with 165-mile-an-hour winds and threw a scare at the Southeast Florida Coast appeared to be losing force as it swung eastward in the Atlantic today.

It still was considered a potentially dangerous storm with maximum winds about hurricane force (75 miles per hour) and the Miami Weather Bureau said shipping in its path should exercise caution.

At 5 a.m. (EST) today the hurricane was about 275 miles east-southeast of Nassau, in the Bahamas, moving east or northeast at about seven miles an hour.

Pravda Claims Nominees Serve U.S. Monopolies

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda gave Russian readers a half-page summary today of the U. S. presidential campaign, calling both Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson "true servants of American monopolies."

The Communist party organ said both the Republican and Democratic candidates are:

"Leaders in the aggressive policy of the imperialist warmongers." "Inspired by anti-Communist hysteria."

"Preachers of reaction and aggression."

Pravda's article—the most extensive commentary to date on the American election—condemned both candidates with what appeared to be complete impartiality.

It said the two have restricted the campaign to second-class, unimportant issues and both are afraid to propose any real solution for the Korean War. Each, said Pravda, fears to propose an expansion or intensification of the war since it is so unpopular. On the other hand, said the paper, each fears to propose a peaceful solution in Korea since this would arouse dissatisfaction among "industrial and financial magnates."

Pravda said the presidential campaign has not succeeded in arousing the interest of the American electorate, which it added is showing great indifference and apathy.

Yugoslavs Claim Bulgarian Troops Fire Across Border

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Belgrade radio says Bulgarian troops fired across the border at a Yugoslav pillbox yesterday and Bulgarian planes made three illegal flights over Yugoslav territory.

The border violations were reported around Dimitrovgrad—a strategic area which could be a major invasion route for Yugoslavia's unfriendly, Soviet-dominated neighbors on the east.

The broadcast, which quoted the Foreign Office, did not say whether Yugoslav forces had returned fire or taken other retaliatory measures.
